

HATHOR

*The sky and the stars make music to You.
The sun and the moon praise You.
The Gods exalt You.
The Goddesses sing to You.*

The Temple of Dendera, Ptolemaic Period
adapted from Miriam Lichtheim, Ancient Egyptian Literature, vol. III

Text found at <http://www.hethert.org/TheNameofHet-Hert.html>: Welcome in peace to the domain of Het-Hert (Hathor), the goddess who personifies Beauty, Love, and Motherhood. She is one of the most beloved deities of all of Kemet (Egypt), having been worshipped since at least the beginning of its recorded history, and her temples and shrines, some of which are still standing today, are among the loveliest in the world.

the verses below were excavated at the Hathor Temple at Denderah and are now housed at the Louvre in Paris:

We sound our drum for her Spirit
We dance her Grace
We see her lovely form in the Heavens
She is our Lady of Sistrum

HATHOR!
Lady of Delight,
Mistress of Dance
and Queen of Song,
Lady of all Beauty, Mistress of Salutation

When both her Eyes are open Sun & Moon

Our hearts rejoice, receiving Light...

We dance for her!
